Arktos, a prominent publisher specialising in New Right and traditionalist literature, has a successful track record of fourteen years in the industry and boasts a portfolio of over 250 distinct book titles, establishing it as the most significant player in this field.

With a mission to explore the boundaries of thought, Arktos provides a voice for individuals often overlooked by the mainstream, offering original and challenging alternatives to the prevailing culture.

The editorial policy of our online journal aligns with our slogan, 'Making Anti-Globalism Global'. When it comes to geopolitical issues, our stance is 'Europe First'. Our objective is to promote anti-globalist narratives on a global scale, while also advocating for Europe's interests and preserving its civilisation as a whole, rather than any particular country's. We strongly oppose intra-European conflicts as they only serve the interests of those who seek to undermine our unity.
